JON J. CHINEN, Bankruptcy Judge. First Hawaiian Bank ("FHB") has moved to dismiss the case because the debtor has not operated in compliance with the Second Amended Consolidated Plan of Reorganization. Substantially the same arguments were raised by the same counsel on March 12, 1983, when the debtor's Second Amended Consolidated Plan of Reorganization was confirmed. The order confirming the plan found that the debtor's plan was "fair and equitable, and in the best interests of the estate." Among other things the order specifically provided that if the debtor failed to operate the business in compliance with the plan, FHB "shall have, in addition to the right of all other creditors to object to confirmation of the plan, the right to *802 file a claim against the debtor for the full amount of its secured claim and any deficiency resulting from said failure to operate the business."

Notwithstanding, the debtor did not operate the business after the confirmation order, and FHB filed this motion for cause to dismiss. Debtor contends that as a matter of law FHB has no rights under the plan, and no right to dismiss, because it has filed a proof of claim in the amount of $6,303,903.07 and is entitled to the full amount of its secured claim. In effect, the debtor alleges that FHB received the benefit of the plan treatment of its debt and was not in compliance therewith. Section 1123 of the Bankruptcy Code states that: "(c)(1) A plan may not be confirmed unless, as of the effective date of the plan, the plan complies with the applicable

In the following pages, we present guidelines for Fantasy Faction, the latest game by the critically acclaimed creator of Aurelia, with a hint of Ravenloft and a touch of Forgotten Realms: Who would you be?

Character Creation and Development

Many of the basic rules for character creation and development are the same as those in the previous game. The only difference lies in the fact that you can freely change your appearances at will, from head to foot. We will point out only those changes that are unique to Fantasy Faction.

Character Creation Starting characters have a relatively low level and have not yet entered a public building. Additional stats can be freely assigned based on your preferences. Please note that, for reasons of balance, you cannot change the current stats. We ask that you create a custom class and personalize it.

Subclasses

There are a variety of subclasses available in Fantasy Faction.

Berserkers (Mages)

have an especially high damage potential, but their spells are more limited. With the inclusion of specialized magic, Mages come in various types.

Warriors

They excel in melee and use powerful close-range attacks. They can use swords, polearms, and shields. Some use axes or warhammers with which to strike and defend.

Spellcasters

They excel at casting multiple spells at once. They primarily use wizards, as well as necromancers, sorcerers, and druids, and others. They utilize skills such as demon or undead summoning.

Rogues

They are quick and deal tremendous damage when moving or avoiding attacks. They use crossbows, daggers, or rapiers. They shield themselves and travel in a group.

Necromancers They are dark and cannot use weapons. They have the ability to change their appearance to become a monster. They cast spells by calling on monsters and demons.

Monsters There are a large number of monsters to choose from, such as werewolves, trolls, ogres, and insects. As with Spellcasters, monsters use demons or draw power from their surroundings.

Appearance There are more possibilities to adjust the appearance of your character. You can adjust the size of your head, chest, waist, and legs. You can adjust the attributes of your head, chest, waist, and legs. You can also adjust the colors of the parts of your body that you have the ability
