FIFA 21 introduced a number of features focused on improving gameplay on the pitch, such as improved ball physics, new off-the-ball behaviours and AI improvements. One of the most significant features of FIFA 21 was the introduction of the revolutionary "Direct Kick" feature. The mechanics of Direct Kick are based on a real football player's attempt to clear a ball from the air, with players using their hips and shoulder to move their body from side to side in an attempt to sneak the ball past the goalkeeper. FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology", which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. From viewing a match, to seeing the players in motion, to playing a match, this technology enables players to deliver more fluid and authentic ball movement, generate more on-ball activity and more accurate and varied visual cues on how to play the game. Full details about the technology can be found in the below information video.
