A: I've never ever seen this kind of formatting before. You can always get it just by doing a search-and-replace with " and ". Q: CodeIgniter Regex to match a pattern I have url - www.myurl.com/content/movie/movie_name.html I need to check if the pattern "content" and "movie" are present in the url. I tried this regex and codeigniter but not working..! $this->uri->segment(3,1); $full_url = $this->input->post("full_url"); if(!preg_match('/content|movie/', $full_url)){ $this->load->view('home',$data); } A: Assuming $full_url is the request URI (e.g. this should do it: if (preg_match('#^(content|movie)\.(.?)\.html#', $full_url)) { // Found content or movie } else { // Did not find content or movie } and assuming you have $data at your disposal (e.g. $this->load->view('home', $data);), this should work too: if (!preg_match('#^(content|movie)\.(.?)\.html#', $full_url, $match)) { // Did not find content or movie } else { // Found content or movie $path = $match[1]; $name = $match[2]; } Testing for competitiveness in ecosystems under climate change: a global meta-analysis. To ensure conservation of biological diversity, national governments have placed much emphasis on the development of monitoring programs to assess species and ecosystems' ability to adapt to environmental change. However, no formal guidance is yet available for evaluating such programs or for testing their robustness, especially when such programs involve local-level measures such as individual trees. This is not the place to suggest new software or features, but I think it's a point of contention that no one ever provides any documentation about connecting the Slate Digital products to the cloud.. I really dislike the name. I wish they'd called it Slate Digital Pro, or something. The best name is probably Slate Digital Premiere, which seems to have been used for their Firewire products. But whatever name they come up with, they're not going to get the job done. TL:DR; Like Apple, it doesn't come with many tutorials, but at least the documentation is readily available. The Slate Digital M-70 professional firewire or usb 24-bit/96khz 24 bit/192khz multitrack mixer is pretty good for a 27 product lineup. The fg-x is the same as the fg-4, which is good at what it does. It's more of a studio-recording sound card and software, rather than a DAW. Which is how most people use it. Like most of their products, it has nothing to do with running software on your computer. Most of the time, you connect to your computer from the computer where the fg's software is running. It's primarily a software mixer, not hardware. It's not meant to be hooked up to a computer without some sort of external recording software. The Dual-17 VST is more of a DAW than a recording interface. It can't record to your computer directly. It's audio cards are not the end-all be-all of sound card choices. If you want to record on your computer, use something else. I found it to work great for sending MIDI from my keyboard, but that is about it. It's most likely better as a midi interface than a sound card. (Newser) - A massive gas leak has prompted evacuations in parts of the Australian city of Newcastle, the Guardian reports. Residents and emergency workers have been alerted to a huge tanker leak that is spilling more than 50,000 gallons per minute at the port of Newcastle, which has a population of 300,000. The incident came to light at 5am when the delivery ship was moored at the port. Local authorities say no one has been injured in the spill. The Guardian reports that the leak was discovered when crews couldn't raise the ship's phone line. The alert first went out on the city's
