We have these pre-printed access cards on our front desk to authorize access to our offices: What exactly are these access control options? I know the red one is supposed to be "open", but what does the green one mean? A: If someone has your card and is unauthorized, the green card will say "Closed", so you can tell you're not in the right place. The red card on the other hand, they're supposed to be open so anyone can go in. A: In general, yellow "open/closed" and red "closed/closed" indicate an unlocked/locked controlled access system. On the open/closed side is the green card that the question asked about. On the closed/closed side are the red cards. The open side is meant to allow entry to those who are allowed access, and the closed side allows entry to those who are not allowed access. A: The
